A Home Called New England distills the soul and substance of this unique corner of America, the place where the very concept of America was born. Here history, homes, people, and stories come alive for all who love this small and “peculiar” corner of the country.

In 320 pages and 400 illustrations and maps, A Home Called New England distills the region’s history, beauty, characters and culture. Residents, former residents, or all those who would be New Englanders will want this richly textured book – to read straight through or to pick up and savor its fascinating texture in slow bites.

A Home Called New England highlights the people, ideas, buildings, cities, and institutions that make this part of the world the fascinating place it is. For lovers of history, architecture, personalities and institutions, A Home Called New England lays it out through 400 years of originality and innovation.

About the authors:

DUO DICKINSON Cornell 1977, has built over 700 things and 30 percent of his work is pro bono or at-cost work. He was elected a Fellow in AIA in 2017.

Dickinson has written eight books. He has received more than 30 awards, has been widely published and given over 100 talks, is co-founder of The Congress of Residential Architecture (CORA), and has taught at Yale and Roger Williams College. He is now on the faculty of the Building Beauty program at the Suor Orsola Benincasa University, Naples, Italy.

STEVE CULPEPPER worked in book publishing since the 1970s, beginning as an intern at Louisiana State University where he was a proofreader on A Confederacy of Dunces, which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1981.

Since college he has served as a newspaper editor, magazine editor and as an acquisition editor for Taunton Press, Globe Pequot Press, and Lyons Press. Culpepper has edited hundreds of non-fiction books, many on architecture, architectural history, and residential construction. Many of his books have become best sellers in their categories.

Globe Pequot is the flagship imprint of the trade division of Rowman & Littlefield. The Globe imprint celebrates all things local, creating books that appeal to visitors and residents alike. Our authors are leading experts on the people, places, food, art, culture and craftsmanship of the regions they cover—primarily New England, the mid-Atlantic and Florida.
